OUR MISSION

To inspire the appreciation and protection of raptors through excellence in rehabilitation, education, and research.

REHABILITATION

A Second Chance at Freedom is the goal for every raptor that comes into our facility. The RMRP staff of highly skilled, licensed raptor rehabilitators works closely with our veterinarians to ensure the highest quality care for every patient that needs our help.

EDUCATION

As the world changes around us, the need for education is now. We believe our passion for teaching others will inspire the love and appreciation of raptors and the spaces where they live: a vital way to save them.

RESEARCH

We believe it is important to learn as much as possible about the raptors we care for and the diseases and hazards that affect them in the hopes of finding solutions to the problems they face.

DIRECTOR'S MESSAGE

FORWARD • A FUTURE OF DREAMS

Dearest Friends,

YOU—you have brought the Rocky Mountain Raptor Program through some tough times in our 32 year history. Through years of hardship, you have kept our doors open when many other non-profits and raptor centers have closed.

We have dreamed of great things for the Rocky Mountain Raptor Program, and we are excited to move into the future from the foundation of strength which you have built. 2019 was full of new and amazing projects: including hosting the Raptor Research Foundation Annual Conference and making new friends across the globe!

Looking into 2020 is very exciting with you by our side. We have so many dreams, and some of them are starting to come true. You never gave up on us, and we take your dedication seriously into our hearts. Dreams can come true with great friends like you.

Thank you for standing beside us as we soar forward. Thank you for believing in our mission. Thank you for your love of wildlife.

Thank you for being you.

With Greatest Gratitude,

Executive Director

32 YEAR HISTORY

FROM A STUDENT CLUB TO A COMMUNITY SERVICE

In 1979, an injured hawk was brought to Colorado State University's Veterinary Teaching Hospital. At the time, there were no programs in the area to support raptors when they needed help. The students banded together and created a small club focused on helping these amazing creatures.

Over the years, the program grew beyond what a student club could handle. At that time, the first Executive Director of the Rocky Mountain Raptor Program, Judy Scherpelz, was hired. Judy helped to organize and expand the program, turning it into a program that involved the local community.

The years have brought us to this: a nationally recognized organization that contributes to the rehabilitation of raptors, the education of thousands of people, and research to help conserve these creatures we love so much.

We are hoping to spring into the future and continue to grow and become more than just an inspiration to our community — we hope to inspire people world wide.

SERVICES TO OUR COMMUNITY

MAKING STRIDES IN RAPTOR PROTECTION AND CONSERVATION

Here are just some of the ways you have enabled RMRP to continue our mission to save wildlife. The RMRP provides the following services to our community and environment:

24/7 EMERGENCY ON-CALL:

The RMRP is reachable every hour, every day of the year for people who have concerns about injured raptors. We also help direct people with other types of birds and animals to their closest licensed wildlife rehabilitator.

WELFARE CHECKS:

Many situations call for a professional eye to assess a raptor with a potential problem. RMRP's staff often drive out to do situation assessments when a concerned member of the public calls about a possibly injured or distressed raptor and we cannot resolve the incident over the phone. From young owls stuck in window wells, to downed trees possibly containing a nest of nestling hawks, our team can help find a solution.

SERVICES TO OUR COMMUNITY

GOLDEN EAGLE RESCUE NETWORK (GERN) - PARTNERS FOR RAPTOR TRANSPORT:

RMRP coordinates with GERN to respond immediately to help injured raptors in the Southeastern Wyoming area.

RAISING AWARENESS:

We strive to alert our surrounding community to problems that wildlife of our area face. We use outreach, educational conservation programs, and publications to help others understand how they can make a difference in wildlife conservation.

PROFESSIONAL SCIENCE MASTERS PROGRAM (CSU):

Students that are part of the PSM in Zoo, Aquarium, and Animal Shelter Management have the opportunity to learn and intern at the RMRP with our knowledgeable staff as mentors. Executive Director Carin Avila and Founding Executive Director/Board President Judy Scherpelz teach several classes for the students to expand their knowledge of wildlife non-profits.

COLORADO PARKS AND WILDLIFE RAPTOR TRAINING:

Officers and volunteers at CPW are given training on identification and safe capture and transport of raptors so we can work together to ensure the best care for raptors in our area.

Lanner Falcon by Paul Walker

SERVICES TO OUR COMMUNITY

PROFESSIONAL WORKSHOPS FOR WILDLIFE PROFESSIONALS:

RMRP hosts professional workshops providing education to energy companies, wildlife agencies, and environmental consulting firms, plus we consult with field operatives to help resolve and prevent conflicts with raptors.

POWERLINE SAFETY:

Raptor powerline deterrents and supplemental perches are tested at the RMRP using live raptors. This helps many companies understand how their designs will work to save wild raptors from electrocution and high voltage trauma risk.

COLORADO WILDLIFE COMMISSION:

Rehabilitation Coordinator Michael Tincher works closely with wildlife commissioners and regularly attends commission meetings to help ensure that rehabilitation issues and raptor populations are considered in state regulations to best protect and serve wildlife.

Thank you to those who help us give these amazing creatures the help they deserve:

REHABILITATION

A SECOND CHANCE AT FREEDOM FOR INJURED RAPTORS

Raptors come up against a variety of challenges in today's busy world. Each and every raptor that needs help will receive the highest quality of care, and the dedication of our caring rehabilitation team and volunteers.

The average stay of a raptor that was returned to the wild was 47.5 days in 2019. 47.5 days to heal, recover, grow strong, and return home.

Of treatable raptors, nearly 78% were released back to the wild. Without you, without compassion, that number would be ZERO. Their lives were saved because someone cared, because someone didn't give up. That someone is YOU.

For every day a bird is cared for by the RMRP, we count it as a "Bird Care Day." The total number of Bird Care Days is calculated from the day the bird arrives to the day it is released back to the wild, or is humanely euthanized due to its injuries.

EDUCATION AND OUTREACH

FUELING CHANGE • WRITING THE FUTURE

The RMRP's Education and Outreach programs are essential to the future health of raptors, our community, and our environment. In 32 years, the RMRP has reached over 17 million people with our conservation message. Stimulating minds, inspiring change, and protecting raptors begins with the efforts each of us take to make our world better.

RESEARCH

IMPROVING THE FUTURE THROUGH KNOWLEDGE

Research is a way for the RMRP to help increase the world's knowledge of raptors and the environment. We are involved in several ongoing projects, and we hope our contributions will continue to advance the conservation of raptors and the places they live.

2019 RESEARCH

PAPERS:

Perch Management May Reduce Raptor Electrocution Risk on Horizontal Post Insulators; by MC Tincher, JF Dwyer, GE Kratz, A Watrud, and RE Harness. Published in the Journal of Raptor Research.

PROJECTS:

Primary researchers listed in parentheses.

- ◇ Survey of lead levels in raptors of Colorado. (RMRP)
- ◇ Raptor carcasses are sent to the Denver Museum of Nature and Science to become a part of their tissue bank for genetic population studies.
- ◇ Specimens are also sent to the University of Northern Colorado to be used for teaching and education.
- ◇ West Nile Virus surveillance. (CDPHE)
- ◇ Wing measurements for dimension of raptors on electric utility poles. (RMRP)
- ◇ Nationwide monitoring of lead levels in eagles. (Vince Slabe, West Virginia University)
- ◇ Peer reviews of multiple raptor research papers.
- ◇ Prevalence of Avian Bornavirus in raptors of Colorado. (Colorado State University/University of Georgia)
- ◇ Ectoparasite collection. (CSU Museum of Arthropod Diversity)
- ◇ Raptor body size and climate change. (Arizona State University)
- ◇ Road mortality in urban raptors. (UNC @ Charlotte)

2019 RAPTOR RESEARCH FOUNDATION CONFERENCE

SHARING KNOWLEDGE • SCIENCE IN ACTION

The Rocky Mountain Raptor Program was honored to co-host the 2019 Raptor Research Foundation Conference with EDM International. This annual event is critical for the exchange of information gathered all over the world regarding the many facets of raptors and their roll in the environment.

Conference Summary:

- Nearly 500 attendees from 13 countries
- 6 hands-on learning workshops
- 125 paper presentations
- 62 poster presentations

VOLUNTEERS

COMPASSION IN ACTION

2019 HOURS VOLUNTEERED:
34,600

Over 100 volunteers donated their time to the RMRP in 2019. These volunteers are an invaluable resource that allows the RMRP to function well beyond its means. A fulltime job is approximately 2087 hours a year, so volunteers contribute the equivalent hours of 16 fulltime employees and one part-time employee.

Hiring 16 employees, even at minimum wage, is beyond our capability. This community effort means the RMRP can provide services well above what it can currently finance. We are extraordinarily proud of the time, effort, and love these amazing people devote to raptors.

BARN OWL BUREAU

The Barn Owl Bureau recognizes RMRP volunteers who have gone beyond the call of duty to raise over $1000 in funds for the RMRP, have given over 10 years of volunteer service to the RMRP, or gave the most number of volunteer hours in the previous year.

HOW YOU CAN HELP

By becoming a supporter of the RMRP, you can ensure the future of our mission. Supporters at every level to be the base upon which we build our mission.

DONATE ONLINE:

Go to www.rmrp.org/donate to generate immediate resources for the RMRP.

WISH LIST:

Such a huge endeavor as the RMRP uses a lot of resources. Can you fill some of our needs? You can find our current wish list online at www.rmrp.org/donate/wish-list.

BECOME A SPONSOR:

You can be a foundation for RMRP to stretch our message even further. Sponsorship opportunities are available for our photo calendar project, annual gala dinner and benefit auction, community outreach events, and much more.

SHOP SMART:

By using iGive.com, Amazon Smile, or GoodShop you can ensure that your regular online shopping will also give back to your community. You can find links to these programs online at www.rmrp.org/donate/other-ways-to-help.

JOIN A GIVING SOCIETY:

By joining one of our many giving societies, you are giving the RMRP a stable base to continue our flight into the future. You can view more at www.rmrp.org and click on “Help the Raptors.”

BECOME A VOLUNTEER:

You can see what our volunteers do to aid the RMRP on a daily basis by checking out our volunteer program online.

...AND SHARE. Your love of raptors can inspire others to join our life-saving mission.
